Excerpt: ... through Mount Lebanon, if the natives chose to embarrass them. The country is here as remarkable for the innumerable multitude of its mulberry trees, as Egypt is for its palm trees. During the chief part of the year, these mulberry trees clothe the prospect, in every direction, with a most delightful verdure. As they are not cultivated for fruit, but for their leaves, from which a great quantity of silk-worms are reared, they are polled generally when the stem is about six feet high; and the small branches, or rather twigs, then burst out in most luxuriant foliage. An immense quantity of silk is thus raised in Syria. The trees are planted in regular lines. In the winter months, they pass a light plough over the soil between them, so that it may drink in the rain more plentifully. I do not remember to have seen mulberry trees reared in Egypt; though I know of no reason why they should not flourish, in some parts of that country. In Psalm lxxviii. 48, in the Prayer-book translation, it is said, that God destroyed their mulberry trees with the frost. This would be a dreadful calamity to a country in the circumstances in which Lebanon now is, as it would ruin the valuable trade of silk. The true sense, however, of that verse is given in the version of the bible, where the word is rendered sycamore trees. This tree has a leaf somewhat like the leaf of the mulberry tree; and its fruit is a wild-fig. The wood of it is peculiarly durable. CONVENT OF AIIS EL WARKA. Friday, Sept. 26--I caMed on the bishop Hanna Maroni, who very readily gave mfe letters for Ain el Warka; a college about four hours to the north, in which the Maronites are taught Syriac, and prepared for the priesthood. He also gave me a letter for Hanna Stambooli, a priest, who seems to be doing pena...
